DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

A troop of 140 laborers from New York state arrived at Goodyear Tuesday evening. The men, hired in New York state, arrived in Putnam on an evening train and were brought down into this town on motor trucks.

Fine new bunkhouses, electrically lighted and otherwise made cheerful and comfortable, have been provided for the force of 500 laborers that will be employed on construction work at Goodyear during the spring, summer and early fall. These new bunkhouses, with others erected some time ago, when the big stockhouse was being built, make up what has come to be known as Goodyear's "White City." The Hankin-Conky Construction company, which is to build the mill, are seeking help in many populous centers in New England and New York state. The object is to gather a great building force and to put through the building as rapidly as possible, hoping to have the main part of the contract finished about August 1. The site for the mill has been cleared of barns and other structures and ground broken for the foundations.

Face Manufacturing company has joined the rush of construction work that is under way in the town of Killingly. Preliminary work for the erection of their new mill on the site that the company purchased, in connection with the Danielson Development association, on Furnace street, is under way. Here another programme of rapid construction work has been adopted and the company hopes to have looms and other machinery running there before the last rose of summer fades.

While news stories from other communities tell of strikes and other varieties of labor unrest, sections of the town of Killingly are speeding up an unprecedented, for this section, degree of efficiency, production and development. It may not be too far off the mark for the public eye that Killingly is one Connecticut town that is making the most of the great opportunities now wide open before the people of communities where work has not come to be regarded as an obsolete obligation. Killingly is proud to announce that it is absolutely free of labor troubles. Everything is running in "high gear" and the prospects for the town is the greatest known in any town in this part of the state. Killingly will not foolishly throw away the opportunity of a lifetime by "running wild" in a great period of prosperity; that is already indicated. "Feet on the ground" is the slogan, and it is being observed, to the lasting good of all.

In line with many other development projects that are being worked out here it may be stated that ground has just been broken at Morris avenue for the 24-apartment structure that is to be erected by the Connecticut Mills company. This structure, the largest of its kind ever built in this part of the county, will cost upwards of $100,000. The building will be completed this year. It will stand near The Gables and will be 550 feet in length.

The Fern Lee company at East Killingly, another very promising new industry in Killingly, will be producing in the not far distant future at East Killingly.

This is Killingly's great year, and it is making the most of it. Everybody is busy, everybody is earning "good money," there are no strikes and contentment, aside from complaints about the cost of foodstuffs and the like, is almost complete, as regards industrial conditions.

The funeral of Louis Messier was held from his home in Laurens with services at the Sacred Heart church, which was filled by relatives, many friends of Mr. Messier and by church organizations with which he was affiliated. The officiating of the mass were Rev. Fathers Chas. and McCarthy. Members of St. Jean Baptist society and the Sacred Heart society attended in a body. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Osmon Elms of Goodyear is in difficulties with the local representative of the state motor vehicle department. Elms has a motor car—but no operator's license. Attention was directed to the fact that when he did some stunts with his car at Goodyear, where the "Silent Cop," the only one in the village, was knocked galley west by his machine. He was interviewed by Inspector R. C. Young. More of this case will be heard later.

Traffic cops of the "silent" kind are doing duty at Attawaugan and Ballouville. At Attawaugan one of the red cops has been placed in the center of the state highway at the intersection of streets where a number of accidents and near accidents have happened in the past.

More men seem to be taking their political seriously this year—especially in politics than ever before. The promise is for something doing this fall and someone besides mis-representatives in Hartford, it was stated here on Tuesday.

William S. Brown, new owner of the Attawaugan hotel, has made no announcement as yet as to any plans he may have in regard to the hotel. Mr. Brown is continuing to operate his farm, on Shepherd Hill, near Wauregan and Central Village.

Chief A. P. Woodward of the fine department has made some recommendations to borough officials relative to an increase in pay for the fire department. There is no indication of what action the burgesses will take, but the hope is that the firemen is that the action will be favorable.

There was another crumb of comfort for the "wets" on Tuesday—it rained again.

Bankers continue to report steady business in the town of Danielson. Institutions and departments in Danielson.

Pledges received in the campaign that has been conducted by the Baptist church here were reported Tuesday as totaling about $9,500.

A majority of the members of Leo J. L'Homme post, American Legion, of Danielson are said to favor the plan now under discussion in congress, but some few are opposed to the idea.

It was stated Tuesday that stragglers from the strikers in cotton textile plants in New Bedford already have made their appearance in this vicinity seeking work. This always has been the rule when strikes were on in Fall River and New Bedford, so it occasions no surprise among the old mill workers here. At times in the past much strikers have come to local mills and worked for less money than they were getting when they went out on strike, and didn't consider themselves "scabs" while doing it, either, though they were proud to apply the term to anyone who offered to take their old jobs back in the Massachusetts mill cities.

Although the democrats of Connecticut will assemble in New Haven this (Wednesday) evening for the state convention of the party, how many of the several hundred voters on the democratic caucus here in Killingly know who the delegates from this town are, when they were selected to go and where the caucus was held, was asked.

Rosario Bassett, who was seriously injured when he fell from a doorway on the second floor of the mill at Goodyear to the cement sidewalk below, is steadily improving at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

Members of the engineer and office forces of the Hankin-Conky company, building the new mill at Goodyear, are making their homes in Danielson. Mrs. C. W. Gardiner of Moosup and Miss Dorothy Paul of Jewett City were guests recently of Miss Katherine D. Ayward.

PUTNAM

One hundred and forty laborers, assembled in New York state, arrived here on the evening train Tuesday, were met by a number of trucks and transported immediately to Goodyear, where they are to make up a force of 500 laborers that will be employed by the Hankin-Conky company on mill construction work during the season just opening. The men are quartered in new bunkhouses that have been specially erected for their occupation. These bunkhouses are located on the outskirts of the village of Goodyear, on the highway leading to Pomfret and along.

Upwards of 700 men, including the skilled craftsmen, will be employed in a few weeks at Goodyear, building new mill, 200 acres, in addition to the present mill, an addition to the power plant and an eight room school building, with assembly hall. The entire construction program will involve, it is stated, an expenditure of well toward $1,500,000. Three different construction companies will be engaged at Goodyear during the summer and fall to build the mill and additions to present mill structures. The Goodyear company's own construction organization is building the tenements. Still another construction company will be the school house, which is to cost not less than $100,000.

Among the force of laborers who came Tuesday evening were many who have seen service with the American army overseas and in many big industrial centers in the United States and other parts of the world.

Today may bring a settlement of the strike at the plant of the, Manhasset Manufacturing company—in this city. Following a meeting of representatives of the chamber of commerce, of the strikers and of the mill company Monday evening, it was stated that conditions looked favorable for reaching an agreement. The strikers are to give their answer today.

More than a score of the strikers attended the conference arranged by the chamber of commerce. Agent A. D. Lown of the Manhasset company also was there. There was a general discussion of the points at issue and it was later stated, an apparent opportunity to settle the strike. The strikers' contention that they should be given back the particular looms they were operating before the strike seemed to be one point of obstruction in bringing about a quick and satisfactory settlement. The mill management is loyally standing by the employees that stood by the company or returned to work after the strike, and intends to stand for these employees.

Mr. Lown conferred privately with a committee representing the strikers, whose numbers have dwindled to about 75, or thereabouts. Throughout the city there was a conference well attended in the settlement of the strike difficulty. The answer expected today from the strikers will be awaited with interest.

A telegram received here from the lodge of Sikks at Port Chester, N. Y., announces the death of J. E. S. Cain, a member of Putnam lodge of Elks and formerly superintendent of the trolley lines in this section of Windham county. Mr. Cain was 60 years of age and had filed his application for membership in Putnam lodge of Elks in 1912.

Mr. Cain is remembered here as a splendid gentleman and one of the most efficient trolley officials ever assigned to duty in this district. After leaving here he was at Norwich and had spent practically all of the year since going away from Putnam in the operation of trolley lines. His death was heard with regret by all who knew him.

Charles Miron, Jr., of this city, received notice Tuesday morning of the death of his father, Charles Miron, at 11:15 Monday evening, at his home in Milbury, Mass., where he had been a resident for 42 years. Mr. Miron, a native of St. Hyacinth, P. Q., was a carpenter during the active years of his life. Mrs. Miron died seven years ago. Mr. Miron leaves besides his son here six daughters, all residents of Milbury—Mrs. Annie Little, Mrs. Chas. Kane, Mrs. Louis Perry, Mrs. Albert Despard, Mrs. William Horn, Mrs. Frank Horn, Irvin G. Miron, assistant to the clerk of the United States senate and a member of the bar of the state of Connecticut; is a grandson of the deceased and will come to this city from Washington, D. C., to join his father in attendance at the funeral.

Charles E. Miron of Hartford, another son of Charles Miron of this city, will go to Milbury for the funeral.

Just an even 300 dogs have been registered with Clerk David Flagg. Last year approximately 400 dogs were registered in the town of Putnam, so, it may be assumed, there are less dogs owned in Putnam now than was the case twelve months ago or many persons who own dogs have not taken the trouble to register them and will find themselves in difficulties later on. Only two persons have appeared at Mr. Flagg's office since the first of May, the limit, to register their dogs. Nothing in the way of seeking out those who own dogs and have not registered them is to be expected until June 1, when Dog Warden Nelson Clair will get busy and see that the law is obeyed by all.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Marsh were conducted at the rooms of a local undertaker Tuesday afternoon by Rev. G. C. S. MacKay of the Baptist church of this city. Burial was in the Putnam Heights cemetery.

William Ordway Partridge, one of the most famous of living American sculptors, is stopping at the Putnam inn during a visit of a few days in this city. Some of the best examples of Mr. Partridge's art are the statue of Shakespeare exhibited at the World's fair in Chicago, the statue of Hamilton at the Hamilton club in New York and the equestrian statue of Grant, at the Union League club, New York. Mr. Partridge is a nephew of the late Judge Lynde A. Catlin, of Woodstock, and is an occasional visitor in this city.

It's going to cost more to be ill in this city and vicinity. It was learned Tuesday that physicians of Putnam have been conferring relative to a readjustment of fees in order that the charges for their professional services may be placed on a par with what is being asked by the physicians in Danielson and in Willimantic. In this connection it may be stated that it has cost less to be sick here during the past year or more than it has in the other places mentioned, insofar as meeting physicians' charges is concerned. While no definite announcement has been made here of the adoption of an advanced schedule of charges, this may be looked for in the near future, it is stated.

In Danielson one dollar is charged for an office call. A call at a physician's office outside of office hours is assessed at $1.50. What is described as "day" visits costs $2 in Danielson. Calling a physician in Danielson during office hours or between 4 p. m. and 9 p. m.

costs $2. There is a double fee for calls between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. and for consultations. Consultation or advice by telephone in Danielson and its surrounding territory costs $1. On obstetrical cases in the Danielson territory the charge is $15, minimum; instrument, $10; anesthesia $5.

To the south of Putnam the territory visited by Putnam and Danielson physicians merge. This is one reason for the prospective equalizing of professional fees asked by the physicians of the different places.

Deeds have been passed conveyed the Tatem block on Front street, opposite the Bradley theatre, to Philip Zaitas. Announcement has been made of the sale of the dwelling of Michael Lynch to Robert T. Cherkoff. Mr. Lynch and Mrs. Lynch are now occupying their new home in the Motor Supply block on Canal street.

State Attorney Charles E. Seale, Clerk Edgar M. Warner and Public Defender Charles L. Torrey were at Willimantic Tuesday attending the session of the Windham county superior court, May term.

It was stated here Tuesday that the S. N. E. T. company has decided to issue a new directory July 1.

May 18 has been set for the annual ladies' night by Putnam lodge of Elks. A committee has been appointed to make this annual event as unforgettably attractive as is always the rule.

Hope was being expressed here Tuesday that some quick agreement might be reached to bring about the settlement to the strike of vesper tenders at the plant of the French River Textile company in Mechanicville.

Maxey Young, 62, a native of the town of Killingly, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Edgar Smith of Chapel street, Mr. Young for many years was a resident at Danville.

This is a week of despair for the farmers. Continued northeast storms have brought agricultural work almost to a standstill.

Repairs are being made so as to provide a store on the Front street side of the Chickering hotel block, badly wrecked in a fire that broke out in January. Otherwise the ruins remain as the fire left them.
